

CONGRESSIONAL.

Both Houses Adjourn for the Holiday.

BILLS READ AND REFERRED.

Beck Makes a Splendid Defense of Silver Coinage in the Senate.

(Special to the Herald by the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Both branches of Congress adjourned to-day until January 5th.

The Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War transmitting reports relating to bridges in course of construction which may interfere with the free navigation of the navigable waters of the United States.

Maxey presented a memorial from the Mexican Veterans' Association praying for the passage of a bill pensioning veterans of the Mexican War. Referred.

Among the bills favorably reported and placed on the calendar were the following:

By Edmunds, from the Committee on the Judiciary, in reference to bigamy and polygamy in Utah. Edmunds said he would ask the Senate to take up this bill immediately after the holiday recess.

By Hoar, from the same committee, the original bill for a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States. Hoar said he would ask the Senate to take up the bill as soon as possible after the holiday recess.

Cullum introduced a postal telegraph bill. It provides for the purchase of existing lines under the provisions of the act of 1868, at its appraised valuation, to be ascertained by a commission of five disinterested persons. Referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, to be considered in connection with a bill on the same subject, recently introduced by Edmunds.

Vest offered a resolution strongly commending the course of Secretary Bayard in the Kelly matter and moved reference of the resolution to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Piatt thought the incident showed how utterly useless the whole diplomatic service was. He hoped the Committee would report that that service could be dispensed with altogether.

Vest then proceeded to address the Senate in regard to his resolution. At the conclusion of his remarks the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Harrison offered a resolution directing the Committee on Expenditures of Public Money to inquire into the statement of the Commissioner of Pensions that, under the preceding administration, political tests were applied to applications for pensions. The resolution empowered the Committee to send for persons and papers and to employ a stenographer. Harrison asked immediate consideration. On objection the resolution went over under the rules.

Beck called up the resolution heretofore offered by him, directing the Committee on Finance to inquire whether gold paid for imported duties had been spent as a special fund and applied to the payment of interest on United States bonds, etc., as required by law.

Beck spoke at considerable length on his resolution. The laws of the land, he said, were equally binding on the executive officer and the husband and citizen, yet the laws to which his resolution referred had been complied with by the treasury officials. No more substantial message has ever emanated from the treasury.

Beck's opinion, that President Cleveland's first message, but he (Beck) did not agree with it. Three-fourths of our business troubles are from the fact that the laws of the United States are not carried out by our executive officers.

Combinations of bankers and bondholders and their well paid press were opposed to silver, and the present crusade against that metal was another evidence of the avarice of the organizations of wealth, organizations which had never secured whatever they had demanded.

Beck expressed the opinion that there was not an obligation existing in this country, national or municipal, that could not legally be paid in gold.

The bondholders of the United States, he said, controlled enormous amounts of money, and the best talent of the country had been now captured by the executive branches of the government they were clamoring for gold and gold alone.

How was the surplus silver to get out of the treasury if the Secretary of the Treasury would not call in bonds that were not to be called in and pay out the silver. The people and their representatives have supported silver. No executive officer should be allowed to disregard law. He would if he could take from the treasury their political power and their influence on currency as shown when they received President Hayes's veto on a memorial occasion.

Morrill remarked that Beck's speech seemed to be a very elaborate assault on the Secretary of the Treasury and the President and if the resolution in support of which it was delivered should pass the Senate it would be equivalent to a vote of a want of confidence in the President and his administration. He regretted that the Senator from Kentucky should have represented the Secretary of the Treasury as a thief and a common thief and the President and Secretary of the Treasury as having been brought by bondholders to do as they pleased with the money of the country. He said that he was not prepared to enter into the defense of the present administration, he would make a reference of the resolution to the Committee on Finance. It was so referred.

Senator Butler's recent resolution relating to Dakota was referred to the Committee on Territories.

The Senate passed the House concurrent resolution providing for the holiday recess, and after a short session, adjourned until January 5th.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, December 21.—On motion of Morrison the resolution offered on Monday last by Burleigh calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information relative to the importation of New York of certain glassware, and to the appropriation of money to the same, was taken up and passed.

The regular order being demanded, the Speaker proceeded to call the States, bills and resolutions for reference. By Hensley, of California, declaring forfeited certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Southern Pacific Railroad; also declaring forfeited certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Central Pacific Railroad in California; also granting to the State of California five percent of the profits from the sale of public lands; also for the erection of a branch school for the Indians in California.

By Morrow, of California, to amend the Chinese Restriction Act, to provide a system of procedure in cases arising under this act and to provide for the expenses incurred in enforcing it.

By Patton, of California, to forfeit unsecured lands in California granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company; also to increase duty on plants, prizes and raisins.

By Townsend, of Illinois, to organize a Territorial government in Indian Territory.

By Payson, of Illinois, repealing the timber culture, pre-emption and desert land acts; also forfeiting lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific; also to put lumber on the free list; also to reduce the duty on lumber.

By Weaver, of Iowa, for the establishment of a postal telegraph; also to organize the "Indian territory" and public

THE MORMONS.

They are to be Legislated On.

THE LATE BILL INTRODUCED.

If the Measure Passes the Life of a Mormon Will Not Be a Happy One.

(Special to the Herald by the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, December 21.—The polygamy bill reported back to-day by Senator Edmunds from the Judiciary Committee, provides that in any prosecution under the statute of the United States for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, the lawful husband or wife of the accused shall be a competent witness, and may be compelled to testify; that an attachment for the witness may be issued without a previous subpoena when there is reasonable ground to believe that the witness will refuse to obey the subpoena; that every marriage ceremony in the Territories shall be certified in writing, the certificate to be prima facie evidence of the fact when produced in court. The failure to furnish a certificate is made punishable by fine and imprisonment. All records of marriages kept by officiating functionaries shall be subjected to inspection by United States officials, and the refusal of a person to furnish a certificate is made punishable by fine and imprisonment. It shall not be lawful for any female to vote at any election hereinafter held in the Territory of Utah for any public purpose whatever, and no such vote shall be received or counted or give effect in any manner whatever, and any and every act of the governor and the Legislature of the Territory of Utah providing for or allowing registration or voting by females is hereby declared null and void. The Assembly of the Territory of Utah which provides for numbering or identifying the wives of married men, and the laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of Utah conferring the right of suffrage on females, are declared null and void. The laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of Utah conferring the right of suffrage on females, are declared null and void. The laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of Utah conferring the right of suffrage on females, are declared null and void.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Representative Feltus will offer a bill to raise the rates on telegraph messages to five cents, and on papers to three cents. If the bill passes he believes it will make a difference to the growers of these fruits in California of a quarter of a million dollars annually.

The Senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of John Bigelow to be Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York.

A large number of recess appointments were sent by the President to the Senate to-day for confirmation.

The Commission on Pensions has rendered a decision upon the application for a pension of an ex-servant who deserted from the army and returned to his command. The Commissioner holds that his discharge from the army was not a discharge from his rights thereunder, which were not forfeited by his failure to comply with the terms of the discharge.

The Chinese bill introduced to-day by Congressman Morrow extends the term of the Chinese Exclusion Act, from the passage of the bill; limits the life of a certificate to two years; provides for the revocation of certificates; excludes all Chinese who have been absent from the United States for a period of more than three years, and who have returned certificates or who have been naturalized in any other country; limits the number of Chinese who, with their families, may be admitted to the United States to one Chinese to each fifty tons of the registered tonnage of the vessel; requires the Secretary of the Treasury to prescribe rules and regulations for the identification of Chinese in transit through the United States; so as to protect their coming and remaining in the United States; requires the Secretary of the Treasury to provide for the policing of the streets of the United States; and requires the Secretary of the Treasury to provide for the policing of the streets of the United States.

Representative Feltus will offer a bill to Congress to amend the act of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company in California and along the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and from San Buenaventura and San Francisco. He says it is doubtful if the entire land granted to the railroad and the best talent of the country had been now captured by the executive branches of the government they were clamoring for gold and gold alone.

How was the surplus silver to get out of the treasury if the Secretary of the Treasury would not call in bonds that were not to be called in and pay out the silver. The Stranger Within Our Gates.

Short Accommodations.

The multitudes who are now thronging into Los Angeles outline more painfully every day the paucity of our hotel accommodations.

This is all the more remarkable because the city is so abundant in capitalists who either singly or through a syndicate ought to have built a mammoth hotel long ago.

Through the various lines of travel an average of almost five hundred people a day are arriving in Los Angeles.

If there were opened here to-morrow a hotel costing half a million dollars it would be filled before a week had elapsed, and with guests who would be willing to pay for first-class accommodations. Perhaps the unwillingness to build such a structure may be explained by the fine opportunities which have abounded for speculation of late.

The temptation to employ one's money in lines in which it will bring the greatest returns is almost irresistible.

The time ought to have come, however, when those largely interested in local development and in improving the city should have been able to realize that one of the best means of securing these results lies in the erection of a hotel which should be commensurate with the needs of the section.

There is scarcely a place in the world outside of the leading cities where there is such a vast amount of travel as there is in Los Angeles to-day, and all the indications are that it will be enduring.

It is a marvel that no wealthy syndicate has bought and erected thereon a costly and handsome hotel.

In the absence of such a movement, it is pleasant to learn that one of our leading architects is at present engaged upon the plans for a four story hotel building to be located upon Mr. Louis Phillips's lot, corner of Spring and Franklin streets.

If the county jail had been removed at an early date, this hotel building would have been a great boon to the city.

It is pleasant to know that Mr. Phillips has at last made up his mind as to the purpose for which he designs the forthcoming edifice.

It is also encouraging to know that Mr. E. J. Baldwin has signified his intention of erecting next year a Los Angeles edition of his superb San Francisco hotel.

The Herald also takes great pleasure in knowing that one hundred men are at work on the Raymond Hotel, near Pasadena, and that this handsome caravansary will probably be ready for occupancy by the 1st of May.

We are none the less pleased to learn that Mr. Samuel Kleer, of New York, the proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel of the country's metropolis, has announced it to be his purpose to build a little further on the Raymond, a hotel connected with which that institution will be a mere circumstance.

He proposes to build a wing of the edifice as a starter, which will cost $200,000, and if the demands of the tourist and invalid travel shall call for it he will then build his hotel in Los Angeles.

But meanwhile what are we to do with the strangers within our gates?—with those who have come and who are to come? They cannot live in hotels which are not in existence, nor can they sustain their solid flesh on a cuisine which has not yet been itself with pots and pans.

In consequence, we shall have the notification of seeing tens of thousands who would gladly have dwelt amongst us here to other places.

While there is no profit in crying over spilled milk, the Herald is anxious to provide for the future. Some sensible steps ought to be taken at once to provide for the thousands who are certain to visit us during the winter and spring months.

It has been suggested that registries of families willing to receive guests ought to be opened at some central point. This is a good idea. As far as it goes it will help matters. But the situation is radically wrong. Los Angeles needs and must have hotel accommodations, and of a superior grade. Two years ago the Princess Louise and the Margins of Lorne and their kindred were obliged to leave this city and hie them to the West. Indies because they could not get suitable accommodations in Los Angeles. Thousands have since been subjected to similar inconveniences. Let us end the difficulty by the conversion of some of our capitalists. A hotel is a business which shall cost half a million dollars is the only thing which will solve the difficulty.

There are abundant signs that a high license movement about to be inaugurated in San Francisco. Encouraged by the result of the late election in Los Angeles—a result which was not fully reported or understood—the men who are prohibitionists in disguise will force the issue. It will probably figure as a factor in the coming gubernatorial campaign. If it is handled energetically by the Democratic party it will prove an element of tremendous strength at the polls. The party will in all likelihood take the same anti-temperance position which it took so successfully in the famous campaign of 1882, at San Jose, and which gave it fifteen thousand votes which it otherwise would not have received. For every vote which the Democratic party will lose by building facing the issue it will gain votes of men who do not believe in discouraging the cultivation of the grape or the sale of its products. The raising of the issue in Los Angeles showed a very marked falling off of the Republican vote. The Democrats allowed themselves to be influenced by personal considerations in the Councilmanial elections. Mr. Tom Goss was elected by the votes of Democrats in the First Ward and Mr. B. Cohn was defeated by Democratic votes in the Fourth Ward. Had it not been for these peculiar

The following were killed in the fight which ensued: Surgeon Madison and Private Collins, Gilman, Harton and McMiller. Lieutenant Cabell and Corporal McFarland were slightly wounded. The Indians were mounted, and were twenty-one in number. After the fight they headed west. No Indians were reported killed.

Who Made Him?

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Dr. T. J. Madox who was killed in a fight with Indians near White House, New Mexico, on Saturday, as mentioned in last night's dispatch, is a son of Dr. Thomas Madox of Washington county, Maryland. He was commissioned as Assistant Surgeon in the army in October, 1881, and his first assignment to duty was to the department of Texas. Dr. Madox was 33 years of age.

Senator Stanford.

He Denies that Grant Made Him a Presidential Candidate.

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Senator Stanford was seen in regard to the report telegraphed from San Francisco to the New York Herald about the arrangements between himself and General Grant whereby Senator Stanford should have been the Presidential candidate of the Republican party in the last campaign. Senator Stanford said that the story probably arose from the fact that one day while he was living in New York he met General Grant coming out of the Park just as he was driving in. General Grant drove back and had his horse put on the piazza and a long conversation followed. Some gentleman who was near by and saw General Grant turn back, and that the General would not have done that for any other man in the United States. "We were always warm friends," said Senator Stanford, "and yesterday I received a copy of the General's book with a note from Colonel Ford stating that it was the General's wish that the book be sent to me. Of course I appreciate the courtesy very highly. During our conversation on that piazza the possibility of my being a Presidential candidate was not alluded to, nor was that subject ever mentioned to me by General Grant, either orally or in our correspondence while I was in Europe. In fact General Grant never spoke or wrote to me on that subject."

Post-mortem.

A Letter from Grant in Reference to Fitz-John Porter.

New York, December 21.—The correspondence which passed between General Grant and General Fitz-John Porter in relation to the latter's efforts to obtain a hearing in his case have been made public, along with the testimony submitted to General Grant which caused him to reverse his opinion of General Porter's guilt and led him strongly to advocate a reversal of the sentence of Porter's dismissal from the army. Immediately after the veto of President Arthur of the bill restoring General Porter to his rank in the army, General Grant wrote to General Porter: "You can scarcely conceive the pain it caused me to read of the veto of your bill by the President yesterday. I was not prepared for it. His message is the saddest sophistry. It is no doubt a great disappointment to you and your family, but I believe it will result ultimately in doing you full justice. You were dismissed unjustly, and you are entitled to restoration that would make you a Major General from the date of your dismissal to the time of your restoration. I wait to see the final decision in your case. Be good cheer, and pray that justice may yet be done you and yours."

German Protectionists.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 21.—Advices by the Oceanic, which arrived from Hong Kong last Saturday evening, state that the German government has raised the German flag on the Marshall and the Gilbert groups of islands, situated in the southern Pacific Ocean, numbering about fifty in all, and claims a German protectorate over them. The natives are all civilized and have been under the influence of the American Missionary Society. Full particulars are expected on an Australian steamer due here on the 25th instant.

Day Dispatches.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 21.—Regarding the forgeries perpetrated on the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of Parkersburg, West Virginia, a private dispatch from Wheeling, W. Va., was received in this city yesterday stating that some of the drafts were cashed by the First National Bank of Santa Barbara and the California Bank of this city had been found to be forgeries. The drafts had been drawn on the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of Parkersburg, West Virginia, and the amount of the drafts was $75,000. From another source the information was received that the forged drafts amounted to $50,000. Special dispatches from Parkersburg, W. Va., state that on the 10th of December the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of that city was advised by the Bank of California that for the first time a draft on them for $21,457.50, which they had discounted, was returned as a complete forgery. They were told that such acceptance had been given by them. Upon inquiry made by L. A. Cole, the secretary of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company, it was ascertained that the drafts were drawn by Hon. W. A. Cooper for some land company and claimed to be accepted by the Camden Consolidated Oil Company, and here the endorsement of E. W. Crooks and H. S. Williams, who had been in the city, was obtained. The information was received of two more drafts of a similar character in the hands of the First National Bank of Santa Barbara, one being for $21,757.50 and the other for $24,000. Whether these drafts have been discounted or not has not yet been ascertained. The signature of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company as a company is a forgery, as well as that of Hon. W. A. Cooper, as well as that of the First National Bank of Santa Barbara, Cal., claimed to have been given in good faith by the latter, and also the financial responsibility of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company. It has been definitely ascertained that this letter is also a forgery. This is as much as is known of the case at present. The only party who appears in the transaction in California who is known here is Dr. A. E. Crooks, a physician of Santa Barbara, but as to the character of the drafts and the use of his name on the drafts nothing is definitely known.

The Wilkes-Barre Horror.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., December 21.—There have been no new developments in regard to the entombed miners. A gang of sixty men went into the mine at 6 o'clock this morning and are pushing forward with the utmost exertion. The last messenger connected with the exploring party came out of the mine at 11:50 o'clock. He reports that none of the men have as yet been discovered and all hope of ever seeing their comrades alive again has been abandoned. They are making a vigorous search but it appears almost certain that the unfortunate men have perished, and that when their bodies are found they will be under a mass of rock and coal.

At 1:30 this afternoon the rails of the mine were pushed towards the imprisoned men, and have been spurred on by the

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Dr. T. J. Madox who was killed in a fight with Indians near White House, New Mexico, on Saturday, as mentioned in last night's dispatch, is a son of Dr. Thomas Madox of Washington county, Maryland. He was commissioned as Assistant Surgeon in the army in October, 1881, and his first assignment to duty was to the department of Texas. Dr. Madox was 33 years of age.

He Denies that Grant Made Him a Presidential Candidate.

WASHINGTON, December 21.—Senator Stanford was seen in regard to the report telegraphed from San Francisco to the New York Herald about the arrangements between himself and General Grant whereby Senator Stanford should have been the Presidential candidate of the Republican party in the last campaign. Senator Stanford said that the story probably arose from the fact that one day while he was living in New York he met General Grant coming out of the Park just as he was driving in. General Grant drove back and had his horse put on the piazza and a long conversation followed. Some gentleman who was near by and saw General Grant turn back, and that the General would not have done that for any other man in the United States. "We were always warm friends," said Senator Stanford, "and yesterday I received a copy of the General's book with a note from Colonel Ford stating that it was the General's wish that the book be sent to me. Of course I appreciate the courtesy very highly. During our conversation on that piazza the possibility of my being a Presidential candidate was not alluded to, nor was that subject ever mentioned to me by General Grant, either orally or in our correspondence while I was in Europe. In fact General Grant never spoke or wrote to me on that subject."

A Letter from Grant in Reference to Fitz-John Porter.

New York, December 21.—The correspondence which passed between General Grant and General Fitz-John Porter in relation to the latter's efforts to obtain a hearing in his case have been made public, along with the testimony submitted to General Grant which caused him to reverse his opinion of General Porter's guilt and led him strongly to advocate a reversal of the sentence of Porter's dismissal from the army. Immediately after the veto of President Arthur of the bill restoring General Porter to his rank in the army, General Grant wrote to General Porter: "You can scarcely conceive the pain it caused me to read of the veto of your bill by the President yesterday. I was not prepared for it. His message is the saddest sophistry. It is no doubt a great disappointment to you and your family, but I believe it will result ultimately in doing you full justice. You were dismissed unjustly, and you are entitled to restoration that would make you a Major General from the date of your dismissal to the time of your restoration. I wait to see the final decision in your case. Be good cheer, and pray that justice may yet be done you and yours."

SAN FRANCISCO, December 21.—Advices by the Oceanic, which arrived from Hong Kong last Saturday evening, state that the German government has raised the German flag on the Marshall and the Gilbert groups of islands, situated in the southern Pacific Ocean, numbering about fifty in all, and claims a German protectorate over them. The natives are all civilized and have been under the influence of the American Missionary Society. Full particulars are expected on an Australian steamer due here on the 25th instant.

Day Dispatches.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 21.—Regarding the forgeries perpetrated on the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of Parkersburg, West Virginia, a private dispatch from Wheeling, W. Va., was received in this city yesterday stating that some of the drafts were cashed by the First National Bank of Santa Barbara and the California Bank of this city had been found to be forgeries. The drafts had been drawn on the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of Parkersburg, West Virginia, and the amount of the drafts was $75,000. From another source the information was received that the forged drafts amounted to $50,000. Special dispatches from Parkersburg, W. Va., state that on the 10th of December the Camden Consolidated Oil Company of that city was advised by the Bank of California that for the first time a draft on them for $21,457.50, which they had discounted, was returned as a complete forgery. They were told that such acceptance had been given by them. Upon inquiry made by L. A. Cole, the secretary of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company, it was ascertained that the drafts were drawn by Hon. W. A. Cooper for some land company and claimed to be accepted by the Camden Consolidated Oil Company, and here the endorsement of E. W. Crooks and H. S. Williams, who had been in the city, was obtained. The information was received of two more drafts of a similar character in the hands of the First National Bank of Santa Barbara, one being for $21,757.50 and the other for $24,000. Whether these drafts have been discounted or not has not yet been ascertained. The signature of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company as a company is a forgery, as well as that of Hon. W. A. Cooper, as well as that of the First National Bank of Santa Barbara, Cal., claimed to have been given in good faith by the latter, and also the financial responsibility of the Camden Consolidated Oil Company. It has been definitely ascertained that this letter is also a forgery. This is as much as is known of the case at present. The only party who appears in the transaction in California who is known here is Dr. A. E. Crooks, a physician of Santa Barbara, but as to the character of the drafts and the use of his name on the drafts nothing is definitely known.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., December 21.—There have been no new developments in regard to the entombed miners. A gang of sixty men went into the mine at 6 o'clock this morning and are pushing forward with the utmost exertion. The last messenger connected with the exploring party came out of the mine at 11:50 o'clock. He reports that none of the men have as yet been discovered and all hope of ever seeing their comrades alive again has been abandoned. They are making a vigorous search but it appears almost certain that the unfortunate men have perished, and that when their bodies are found they will be under a mass of rock and coal.

At 1:30 this afternoon the rails of the mine were pushed towards the imprisoned men, and have been spurred on by the
